Blacklist: The Hollywood Red Scare

October 12, 2018 - February 10, 2019

Premiere: Thursday, October 11

Are you or have you ever been a member of the communist party?

In 1947, the House Un-American Activities Committee held hearings to uncover Communist subversion in the film industry. Those witnesses who refused to name people associated with the Communist party were blacklisted, a process that was duplicated throughout the next decade.

Blacklist asks: What does it mean to be a patriot? Why were Jews particularly targeted? What were media responses? How should First Amendment rights be balanced with U.S. security? And what are contemporary parallels?

Originally curated by Jewish Museum Milwaukee.

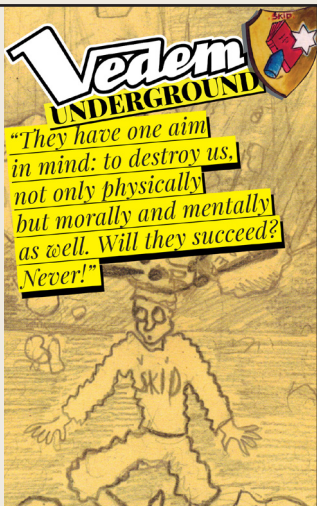

Vedem: The Underground Magazine of the Terezin Ghetto

March 1 - June 2, 2019

Opening Preview: Thursday, February 28

Smithsonian magazine hails Vedem Underground as one of the 10 "Don't Miss..." new exhibits.

Between 1942 and 1944, a group of Jewish boys risked their lives to create an underground magazine called, 'Vedem', documenting the defiance, heartbreak, hard-won victories and satire that typified teenage life inside the walls of Czechoslovakia's Terezin Ghetto. The only covert magazine to be regularly produced by prisoners inside a Nazi concentration camp, 'Vedem' served as a form of protest and rebellion by some of the youngest resistance fighters of the World War II era.

Curated and designed by Rina Taraseisley, Michael Murphy and Danny King, and organized by The Vedem Underground Project. Image: Vedem Cover Image, Issue 48, 1943. Courtesy of Terezin Memorial Ghetto Museum.
