

2ND EBERTH ALARCÓN MEMORIAL PEACE AND JUSTICE SERIES

Register to be a Bone Marrow Donor. Save a life.

Informational Panel

Monday, February 16th
Noon – 1 pm (brownbag lunch)
Davies Theatre, Davies Center

A panel discussion with donor recipient, Kyle Buchmann (UW-Eau Claire Alumnus and Staff member), his sister and donor, Meg Buchmann, donor activist, John Cole, and National Marrow Donor Program representative, John Pawloski, about the need for donors, the donor process, and your questions.

When beloved mathematics professor and social activist Dr. Eberth Alarcón was diagnosed with a rare form of leukemia, he and his wife, Dr. Asha Sen, of the English department, found that it was very difficult for racial minorities to find compatible donor matches. Dr. Alarcón was committed to the fight against cancer and even donated his body to science. We would like to honor him and other members of our campus community like Dr. Andrew Balas and UWEC graduate J. J. Lehmann who have fought and continue to fight against cancer by supporting the National Marrow Donor Program's efforts to recruit minority as well as Caucasian donors.

Registration Drive

Tuesday, March 3rd
10 am – 4 pm
Oneida and Ho-Chunk rooms,
Davies Center

Only 3 out of 10 patients get to have a life-saving transplant. Minorities have the hardest time finding a match.
